“Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it.” 1 Corinthians 12:27

Dear Parents,

February 22, 2016

We have a busy week! We are heading to Donwood Manor first thing this morning to play games with the patrons who reside there. We have another week of D.E.A.R. as well. The kids are looking forward to wrapping up I Love to Read Month with an all-school Read-In at the Collegiate on Friday. We will spend the first part of our visit reading with one another and look forward to sharing in a time of worship together.

The students will be writing their Multiplication and Division Math test this week. Some students will write today, as they have already completed the unit work and review. However, most students will be writing on Wednesday, February 24th. The review was handed out at the beginning of last week and at this point, most students are nearly finished. This has been a long and challenging unit but the students have worked hard to keep on top of the daily homework and are asking for help when clarification is needed. Please be sure to send me an email if you have questions/concerns.

Have a blessed week!
