

5A Blue Note

“Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it.” 1 Corinthians 12:27

Dear Parents,

November 2, 2015

We have a fairly normal week, aside from a Math test on Wednesday. Students have worked hard to complete their Review and have a couple more days to review the concepts learned over the unit. Before we transition into our new unit on Multiplication and Division, students will begin the process of making an Interactive Math Journal. This journal will act as a dictionary of sorts. It will be an aid to refer to when they come across a term/concept they do not understand. Though I will be guiding them along in this process, students will be responsible for filling the pages of their journal. In order to make the journal their “own”, I have asked them to collect and bring in small pictures that represent them. For example, illustrations of their favourite food, sports team, animal, hobby, etc... The pictures will be used to make a collage on the front of their journal. Please be sure to send me in an email if you have further questions about this.

Thank you for your continued support!

Have a blessed week!
